Celebrating Differences:
Teaching Children about Special Needs and Disabilities
Talking with your child

- Provide education
- Point out similarities
- Read books that depict people who have different abilities with your child.
- Encourage friendships with children of all abilities.
- Learn together.

Addressing a child’s questions about a person with a disability when in public

- Don’t get mad when they get curious.
- A short stare is okay.
- Being different isn’t bad.
- Always ask before helping.
- Understand that equipment is empowering.
- Watch your own reactions.

Disability Etiquette

1. When you see a person with a disability don’t point, laugh, ignore and stare.

2. Even if the person has trouble hearing don’t shout. Don’t talk to the person as though he is younger or not as smart as you.

Disability Etiquette

3. If a person is with a Personal Care Assistant, sign language interpreter or other companion, speak to the person not the companion.

4. Some people have service dogs or animals to help them. Those dogs and animals are working and should not be distracted.
Disability Etiquette

5. If you are talking with a person who is in a wheel chair, kneel or sit so you are at eye-level.

6. Some people who have disabilities use computers and other equipment called assistive technology. Even though these devices look very cool they are often fragile and expensive.

7. Some people have a speech disability. Their speech may be slow and hard to understand, or they may have trouble getting the words out smoothly. Be patient and listen.
Disability Etiquette

10. People who have disabilities can do many things, just like you! They just may do them differently.

Bullying

• About 21% or 1 in 5 students report being bullied during the school year.
• Students with a disability are 2 to 3 times more likely to be bullied than their non-disabled peers.
• Bullying behaviors have been known to start as young as 3 and 4 years old.
• Most common reasons student’s reported being bullied were looks, body shape and race.
What is Bullying?

- Any unwanted aggressive behavior among youth, who are not siblings or current dating partners, that involves a real or perceived power imbalance.
- The behavior is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time.
- Bullying may inflict harm or distress on the targeted youth including physical, psychological, social, or educational harm.
- The damaging effects of bullying do not stop at the individual, and in fact, negatively impacts peers, families, schools, and even neighborhoods.

Telling vs. Tattling

Telling is done to protect yourself or someone else from getting hurt.
Tattling is done to get someone in trouble.

Talking with your child about bullying

1. Help your child to remember that they are not alone.
2. It is not up to them to stop the bullying
3. While bullying happens to a lot of kids, it never okay and nobody deserves to be treated that way.
4. We all need to work together to put an end to bullying.
What to tell your child if they witness bullying?

• Let your child know how powerful they are and that they can make a difference.

• Tell them not to join in on the bullying behavior

• Encourage them to show support for the bullied student

• Encourage them to tell an adult.

• If they are comfortable, tell them that they can ask the person who is bullying to stop.
